

Hi everyone,

Many employers are taking different paths regarding interviewing during the hiring process

People are experiencing:

- Candidates are phone screened, then there is a Zoom interview and depending on the role there may be an in person interview.
- Candidates are experiencing 2-3 zoom interviews and never meeting anyone from the company in person
- Sometimes you never get to meet the person you will be working with - because your position may be remote
- Majority of interviews begin with a phone interview
- Please remember that many libraries offer hots spots to access Wi-Fi - if you are able to drive to the library and park in the parking lot

We know it's not the easiest time to interview during Covid but knowing that "anything is possible" takes some of the surprise out of the equation- just prepare for all options and good luck !
