Every worker. Every industry. A strong economy.

A third day of holiday policy scan cheer!

The third day of holiday policy scans can mean only one thing: it's time for the third State Blueprint from Workforce Data Quality Campaign (WDQC). Mastering the Blueprint: State Progress on Workforce Data is new and updated for 2016. In it, WDQC surveys all fifty states and the District of Columbia and identifies which states have strong data systems that help align education with employer needs.

WDQC has also released a supplementary toolkit that can help states enact policies to improve data infrastructure and promote data use. The toolkit includes descriptions of state data policies, brief case studies, and legislative templates.
