Every worker. Every industry. A strong economy.

We're Better Together

National Skills Coalition has just released a new policy brief, Better Together, which details how advocates can create new upskilling opportunities, meet local business needs for skilled workers, and streamline training costs by launching partnerships between adult education organizations and Career and Technical Education (CTE) providers.

The brief highlights an example from El Paso, Texas where local school district leaders have capitalized on opportunities under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) to improve alignment between the adult education and CTE systems.
