The Senate is expected to vote this week on a bipartisan bill to strengthen SNAP. Will you urge your Senators to vote yes and invest in skills and not red tape? The Agricultural Improvement Act of 2018 (S.3042) would provide new funding for high quality training programs to help SNAP participants get the skills they need to get family supporting jobs, without adopting harsh work requirements.

This is in stark contrast to the recently passed House bill, which would reduce access to SNAP for millions of low income workers while adding significant administrative burdens and costs on states.
