Trump administration needs to hear your voice on a key safety net program

Our country's safety net programs should be about improving lives – giving people ladders of opportunity to build the skills they need to access good jobs with good wages. But the Trump administration keeps trying to put restrictions on certain recipients in the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP).

The Department of Agriculture has proposed a new federal rule that would restrict state flexibility to waive the three-month time limit that “able-bodied adults without dependents” can receive SNAP benefits.

We all know that being “able-bodied” isn’t enough to get a good job with a living wage. We also know that time limits and work requirements trap people into poverty by forcing them into low-wage jobs with little to no opportunity for career advancement.

We need you to comment on this proposed rule and tell the Trump administration to focus on investing in SNAP Employment and Training (E&T) programs. Here’s a comment template you can use, including highlighted areas where you can personalize the comment to your organization. Submit your comment online here on or before the April 2, 2019 deadline. Your voice can make all the difference!
