

NATIONAL SKILLS COALITION

Every worker. Every industry. A strong economy.

You're invited! Join us for the 2018 Skills Summit

Over the past year and a half we have worked together as a diverse but aligned coalition to shape and share our Skills for Good Jobs Agenda to ensure our nation's workers and industries have the skills they need to compete and prosper. Though fatigue was high coming out of the fall election, our coalition showed up in record numbers to take our skills agenda to the Hill at last February's Skills Summit. We must keep that momentum going.

Register now to join colleagues from across the country to connect, learn, and advocate at National Skills Coalition's 2018 Skills Summit in Washington D.C., February 6-8, 2018.

It may seem as if little good news is coming out of Washington D.C. these days – but our work on our shared agenda is advancing against all odds. Since last year's Skills Summit, our coalition has elevated the Skills for Good Jobs Agenda with policymakers through hundreds of meetings, calls, and letters. That advocacy is having an impact. At a time when there is little cross-party collaboration, Republicans and Democrats are reaching across the aisle on our skills proposals. We currently have nearly a dozen bipartisan policies introduced or in formation across all eight planks of the Skills for Good Jobs Agenda.

You are a leader at the forefront of this skills movement. And we can't stop now. Register now to secure your spot and take advantage of our $395 early bird rate (this rate will increase to $550 in November).

After registering, book your room at the Omni Shoreham on the National Skills Coalition room block for $219 per night (good news: this is $40 less than last year!). This reduced rate is available for a limited time, so reserve your room today.

Hope to see you in D.C.!
