Action Alert! Submit comments on immigration "Public Charge" proposal

As NSC previously shared, new regulations recently proposed by the Trump administration would make sweeping changes to the current system. The regulations would have significant negative effects on immigrants' access to publicly funded programs, and would impose new burdens on education and workforce providers.

You can speak up to oppose these damaging changes by submitting a public comment (representing yourself or your organization). Use NSC's template comments as a starting point, but be sure to add some language of your own to ensure that your comment is counted as a separate submission.

Submit your comments to Regulations.gov before the December 10 deadline.

Don't forget to register for our October 24 webinar, Understanding the Public Charge: Implications for Adult Education and Workforce Advocates to learn what the proposal includes, how it would affect immigrant adult learners and workers, and what it means for community colleges, nonprofit organizations, and other skills advocates.
